BOND REES LTD

Important Service Information

Bond Rees Ltd operates as an advertising and introduction service in relation to close protection and bodyguard services.

Where a client requires close protection services, Bond Rees may introduce the client to an independent security professional who holds the appropriate Security Industry Authority (SIA) licence.

The independent close protection professional is responsible for agreeing the scope of the assignment, operational requirements, service terms and charges directly with the client.

Any contract for the provision of close protection services is entered into directly between the client and the independent close protection professional or their security business.

Payment for the provision of close protection services is made directly by the client to the independent service provider.

Bond Rees Ltd does not employ, supervise or control independent close protection professionals during the performance of their security duties and does not itself provide the regulated close protection service under the introduction arrangement.

Before making an introduction, Bond Rees seeks to verify that the proposed close protection professional holds an appropriate current SIA licence. Clients should nevertheless satisfy themselves as to the suitability of any independent service provider before entering into a contract with them.
